

Credits and Acknowledgements

Thanks go to all those below for the material they have supplied and my wife for proof reading my bits. I have inevitably been very selective in choosing suitable information from all that is available, both in terms of the motorcycle models shown and the numbers of photographs used to help identify the make and model of a particular machine. This publication, by its very nature, is an informed sorting of a large quantity of material that is available, into an ordered collection to form a publication that makes sense of it all. Thus the help of the gatherers of the input was essential and so they get well deserved credit for their contributions.
